

PRESS RELEASE

Caterease Staff, Customer Base Continue to Grow

For Immediate Release
Friday, October 14, 2005

Naples, Florida –

Fresh from another quarter of record sales, Caterease Software announced this month the addition of several new employees at their home office in Naples, Florida. Already the leader in the catering and event management software industry, Caterease continues its record growth as it prepares to close out 2005 with even more gains over last year's record-setting sales.

"Every year brings new and exciting things with Caterease," says Tom Jewell, Caterease Director of Sales. "The program is always improving, and its incredible popularity continues to grow."

To keep up with that growth, Caterease has added new staff in both its sales and support departments, according to Jewell. Among those new recruits is Dan Bailey, Assistant Developer and Support Manager for the company.

"I am so excited to be working here," Bailey says of Caterease. "There is so much life in this company, so much energy. These are great people for employees to work for, and for customers to work with."

Another new employee, Technical Support Person Kristy Mohler, agrees with Bailey's assessment. "They're a very laid back group here at Caterease," Mohler explains. "Customers are very comfortable calling for assistance, because everyone on the staff is incredibly easy to deal with."

The newest member of the Caterease team, Scott Doan, is working in the sales office. "It's great to represent a program like Caterease," Doan says. "Clients are always very impressed with what we offer, and it's really nice to be able to sell a product you can be so proud of."

Jewell already sees the new Caterease members fitting in well. "I've been so impressed with how these folks have jumped right in here. I expect they'll all bring great things to the company."

Of course, at Caterease, great things will really be nothing new.
